ABSTRACT

The intensive-level survey of the Capitol View Neighborhood in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma was conducted between December 2020-April 2021. The Capitol View neighborhood is located northeast of the Oklahoma State Capitol, and the survey area is an excellent mixture of commercial, religious, educational, and residential buildings. This survey is part of a two-phase process with Phase I conducted during this time. The intent of Phase I was to locate, identify, and record 550 buildings, sites, structures, objects, and districts within the survey boundary and document them at the minimum level. The intensive-level survey consists of the preparation of a Historic Preservation Resource Identification Form, survey maps, and photographs documenting the current condition of each resource. Geographic Information System (GIS) geodatabases were created to assist in the identification and location of historic resources to include addressing, building footprints, and various boundaries. The GIS geodatabases encompass the Phase I and Phase II survey boundaries.

This report includes the findings of Phase I of the intensive-level survey with no supplemental historic context. The Phase I report includes but is not limited to architectural styles found, properties individually eligible for the National Register of Historic Places, and any potential historic districts.

INTRODUCTION

The Intensive-Level Survey of the Capitol View Neighborhood covers over 700 properties within its boundary. The first phase of the survey is comprised of 550 properties documented. The construction of properties range between 1923 to the present. Phase I features various architectural styles, land uses, and development periods.

Previous survey efforts of the Capitol View Neighborhood included the Reconnaissance Level Survey of Portions of Oklahoma City: Northeast Oklahoma City by the City of Oklahoma City Planning Department in 1994. During the reconnaissance survey, one property and one potential historic district was identified as eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The Dewey School located at 3500 Lindsay Avenue was identified. The Bellacasa Terrace/Neff's Capitol was identified as a potential historic district bounded by Northeast 23rd Street, North Phillips Avenue, Northeast 26th Street, and North Laird Avenue. In addition, the Dewey School appears in the Architectural/Historical Survey of Oklahoma City's Historic School Buildings by Jo Meacham Associates in 2001.

The Capitol View Neighborhood was added to the Strong Neighborhoods Initiative (SNI) in 2018. The Strong Neighborhoods Initiative assists with revitalizing neighborhoods and creates long-term economic stability by using community engagement, planning practices, and private and public investment. Federal funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are used to make targeted investments with the area. Since its adoption into the SNI, infill development has occurred with four new homes constructed by the Oklahoma City Housing Redevelopment Corporation. The new infill houses feature New Traditional styles that attempt to mirror historic architectural styles.

RESEARCH DESIGN

The Intensive Level Survey of Capitol View – Phase I complies with National Register Bulletin 24: Guidelines for Local Surveys: A Basis for Preservation Planning as well as the Oklahoma State Historic Preservation Office's (SHPO) "Oklahoma Architectural/Historic Survey Requirements" and "Architectural/Historic Resource Survey: A Field Guide." The purpose of the survey is to locate, identify, and record 550 buildings, sites, structures, objects, and districts within the survey boundary and document them at the minimum level. Each resource identified was evaluated for eligibility for the National Register of Historic Places. All documentation is recorded on the "Historic Preservation Resource Identification Form" provided by the SHPO, with two accompanying photographs. An overall map with building footprints, addresses, and National Register evaluations has been provided identifying each property surveyed during Phase I.

Architectural styles were selected based on "National Register Data Categories for Architectural Classification" in National Register Bulletin 16A: How to Complete the National Register Form. Residential architectural styles were derived from A Field Guide to American Houses by Virginia Lee McAlester, and the majority of commercial architectural styles were derived from The Buildings of Main Street: A Guide to American Commercial Architecture by Richard Longstreth.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

The goals for the preparation of the Intensive Level Survey of Capitol View – Phase 1 in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma:

- Identify and record each property on the Historic Resource Form provided by the Oklahoma State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO); and
- Assess each resource's potential eligibility for individual listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

AREA SURVEYED

The entire survey area of the Intensive Level Survey of Capitol View encompasses approximately 269.6 acres, and it is roughly bounded by North Lincoln Boulevard to the west, Northeast 36th Street to the north, and North Kelley Avenue to the east. The south boundary line is described as proceeding west along Northeast 23rd Street then north along North Laird Avenue then west along Northeast 24th Street then north along North Lindsay Avenue then west along Northeast 28th Street to North Lincoln Boulevard.

Phase I of the Intensive Level Survey of Capitol View is approximately 202 acres of the overall 269.6 acres. The Capitol View survey area is located northeast to the Oklahoma State Capitol (NRIS 76001572). Within the survey area, 550 resources were surveyed. The area is predominantly residential with commercial buildings located along the outer edges of the survey boundary. Residential buildings are found throughout the interior as well as religious uses dispersed throughout the area and along the eastern boundary line. There are approximately 173 resources remaining to survey for Phase II.

METHODOLOGY

Initial preparation for fieldwork included creating a database of all the properties within the entire survey boundary as well as a geodatabase to track properties surveyed during Phase I. This allowed a catalog of properties that need to be surveyed during Phase II. The City of Oklahoma City Interactive GIS and Zoning Land Use Map website as well as the Oklahoma County Assessor provided information regarding current addresses and legal descriptions. The Oklahoma Office of Geographic Information's "OK Maps" provide geographic information including municipal city limits, and most building footprints. Building footprints were created for properties that did not have one, and others were updated to reflect the current aerial imagery as needed. The United State Census Bureau's Geography Program provided GIS data for city streets and major highways.

The Oklahoma Historical Aerial Digitization Project's ArcGIS interactive map provided access to historic aerial imagery. Oklahoma State Department of Libraries, Oklahoma Geological Survey, and Oklahoma State University provided additional aerial imagery. Other online repositories provided access to city directories and Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps. Architecture literature included A Field Guide to American Houses by Virginia Savage McAlester, The Buildings of Main Street by Richard Longstreth, Building Heritage Technology online repository, Fieldwork was conducted between December 11-13, 2020. For Phase I, 550 buildings, sites, structures, and objects appearing to be constructed within the survey boundary were photographed at that time. The location of each property within the survey area is indicated on a map showing the boundary line of the survey area and building footprint. A separate map was created to identify any potential historic districts including the contributing status of each property. For properties not surveyed during Phase I, "TBD" has been annotated on maps.

RESULTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

NUMBER OF RESOURCES SURVEYED

Within the survey boundary, 550 properties were surveyed. This included one site and 549 buildings. Buildings in the survey area included one to two story commercial businesses, religious properties, single-family dwellings, multi-family dwellings, warehouses, government offices, and a processing site. There are no buildings previously listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

CRITERIA FOR DESIGNATION TO THE NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES

All properties within the Phase I survey boundary were considered for designation in the National Register of Historic Places. This includes listing as an individual property, potential historic district, or combination thereof.

The quality of significance in American history, architecture, archeology, engineering, and culture is present in districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects that possess integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association, and:

A. That are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; or
B. That are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or
C. That embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or that represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or
D. That have yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important to prehistory or history.

Additionally, a property must have sufficient integrity to convey its significance. According to National Register Bulletin 15, the seven aspects of integrity are as follows:

- Location
- Design
- Setting
- Materials
- Workmanship
- Feeling
- Association

ARCHITECTURAL STYLES & PROPERTY TYPES

Colonial Revival/Dutch Colonial

The Colonial Revival house was the dominant architectural style during the early 20th century, and its popularity increased during the 1910-1930s. "Colonial Revival" is in reference to the renewed interest in English and Dutch-style houses on the Atlantic Seaboard. Early versions of the Colonial Revival were a series of interpretations of earlier Georgian and Adam styles, and the popularity never faded. As time progressed, forms became simplified or characteristics were incorporated into other architectural styles such as the ranch house. Colonial Revival houses featured characteristics such as multi-light double-hung sashes, accentuated front door, and centered entry or full-width porches, In the survey area, there are 17 examples of Colonial Revival houses and were constructed between 1929-1940. 948 Northeast 32nd Street is the only example of the Dutch Colonial variation with its side-gabled gambrel roof.

Tudor Revival

The Tudor Revival is a loose representation of late Medieval and early Renaissance examples that began in the 1850s in England. Early examples of Tudor Revival architecture in the United States can be dated back to the late 19th century in grandiose examples. The style reached a peak in popularity in the 1920s when brick masonry techniques allowed modest houses to mirror distinct masonry applications to their English protypes. The Tudor Revival houses were notable for their asymmetrical design, steeply pitched front facing gables, multiple gables, decorative brickwork, massive chimneys, and half-timbering. In the survey area, there are 38 examples of Tudor Revival houses constructed between 1929 and 1949. The majority of Tudor Revivals are constructed between Northeast 24th Street and Northeast 29th Street. Constructed in 1932, 805 Northeast 24th Street features the Tudor Revival style applied to a duplex with separate covered entrances on the façade.

Bungalow/Craftsman

The origins of the Bungalow/Craftsman originated with brothers Charles Sumner Greene and Henry Mather Greene in California during the early 1900s. The popularity spread across the country with their design publicized in magazines such as House Beautiful and Good Housekeeping as well as their "ready-to-build" kits that could be ordered and built by local builders. Defining characteristics of the Bungalow/Craftsman include the low-pitched gable roof, roof rafters, open porches with tapered or square columns, and decorative roof beam or brackets. There are 28 examples of Bungalow/Craftsman in the survey area constructed primarily in the 1920s and 1930s. Some appeared to have been moved to the survey based on aerial imagery. 740 Northeast 29th Street

Moderne

The Moderne house was used in residential architecture after 1930. Modernistic architecture became popular during the Arts Décoratifs et Industriels Moderne in 1925, and after the 1930s modernistic building became streamlined to reflect the industrial design for ships, vehicles, and airplanes. Moderne houses feature smooth wall surfaces, flat roofs, horizontal grooves or lines, and one or more curved corners. The Moderne house may incorporate glass block and continuous windows around corners.

Minimal Traditional

The Minimal Traditional style house was the popular architectural style of the 1930s since it was capable of being built quickly, and it could be financed with FHA-insured loans. The Minimal Traditional house was able to be built quickly due to its simple form. Builders could abandon any excess forms including unnecessary gables, dormers, breaks in the roof form and wide eaves. These houses were often constructed during the Great Depression as an affordable house as well as used during and after World War II to quickly relocate production workers during the war and for returning service members after the war. Minimal Traditional houses were generally one story with wood siding, detached garages, and minimal or no eave overhang. In the survey area, there are 73 examples of the Minimal Traditional houses constructed between 1927 through the 1963. The Minimal Traditional houses are dispersed throughout the survey area, the majority constructed between Northeast 28th Street through Northeast 34th Street. 820 Northeast 31st Street is an excellent example of a Minimal Traditional house with an attached garage. 804 Northeast 28th Street is an excellent example of a Minimal Traditional house with Tudor Revival characteristics including an asymmetrical gable end, arched entry, and an exterior façade chimney.

The Ranch style became the popular style of residential architecture in the 1950s and 1960s. The Ranch house origins can be traced to Frank Lloyd Wright's Prairie Style and Cliff May's California Ranch house designs. Ranch houses were designed with open floor plans, low-pitched roofs and integrated into the landscape. They were made possible with the rise of the automobile since Ranch houses were typically on larger lots in suburbs further away from downtown and commercial corridors. Other details include long one story houses with asymmetrical shapes, low-pitched roofs, one or more types of siding used, picture windows, and integrated garages. Ranch houses that have additional ornamentation from Spanish, Colonial Revival, Neoclassical French, Tudor, or Storybook styles are commonly known as "Stylized Ranch." The Stylized Ranch incorporates the detailing without losing the Ranch form. There are 315 examples of Ranch houses within the survey area constructed predominantly between the 1950s - 1970s. Several Ranch houses within the survey area feature enclosed garages with windows or doors and have carports. 925 Northeast 29th Street is an example of an incompatible attached carport located on the front, and 929 Northeast 29th Street is an example of an attached carport that mirrors character-defining features of the original house.

Contemporary

The Contemporary style is designed from the inside-outside with more attention drawn into the interior spaces rather than the exterior. The exterior features little to no ornamentation with broad expanses of uninterrupted walls with ornamentation derived from decorative brick courses, concrete wall shields, and wall color. Contemporary houses feature details such as low-pitched gabled roofs, wide eave overhangs, exposed roof or eave beams, and large rear-facing or shielded windows. They are built with a variety of materials including wood, stone, or brick, and feature recessed doors not visible from the street. There are eight examples of Contemporary style houses within the survey area constructed predominantly between the 1950s - 1970s. Constructed in c. 1963, 824-826 Northeast 26th Street is a contemporary-style duplex with a deep recessed carport under the wide hipped gable end.

Split-Level

The Split-Level is known as a form of a structure that mirrors the architectural details of Ranch, Stylized Ranch, and Contemporary Styles. The Split-Level modifies these one story architectural styles by creating an additional half story by splitting an one story section which typically creates an earth contact garage on the first story and a living are on the second story. The three separate levels creates staggered and separated spaces. The Split-Level became popular for sloped grades by tucking the garage under the house or by separating noisy spaces from quiet spaces. There is one example of a Split-Level house, 915 Northeast 31st Street, constructed in 1955.

Modern Movement

The Modern Movement categorizes structures that express modernism; however, they do not display any emphasis on other modern movement styles such Ranch or Contemporary for residential houses or the International Style and New Formalism styles for commercial buildings. The Modern Movement buildings feature minimal detailing and are constructed of brick, concrete, metals, wood, stone, or any combination thereof. In the survey area, there are 44 examples of modern movement buildings constructed between the 1950s and the 1980s. Many of the churches in the survey area were constructed in the modern movement style such as 2717 North Kelley Avenue and 2701 North Kelley Avenue.

Millennium Mansion

Millennium Mansions are typically found within larger subdivisions but have been used for infill development in older neighborhoods. The massing of the Millennium Mansion allows for taller interior ceiling heights and additional square footage. These houses use a variety of siding. According to A Field Guide to American Houses, after decades of low, broad houses, the millennium mansion roofs "…added more complexity, as if to celebrate the new millennium with still more drama." Notable features of the Millennium Mansion includes complex roof systems with lower cross gable or hips, tall entries, arched entrances, and various window designs. The only one example of a Millennium Mansion is located at 824 Northeast 29th Street, which features a complex roof system and arched entry.

New Traditional

New Traditional buildings are based on popular architectural styles from the early 20th century. The New Traditional house roots began as early as the 1970s when there was a renewed interest in historical styles. Early houses were awkwardly proportioned to their historic examples until the 1990s when portions, detailing, and design mirrored the historic character-defining massing and features. New Traditional commercial buildings are typically massive with large entrances. There are eight examples of New Traditional houses in Phase I with all being constructed since 2005. 821 Northeast 31st Street features characteristics of a Bungalow/Craftsman with exposed rafter tails and vertical divided-light windows. 945 Northeast 29th Street features characteristics of an American Foursquare with its square footprint and full-width porch.

Commercial

Commercial-style architecture found within the survey area includes eight multi-family buildings, one commercial business, and one school. This includes variations of the one-part commercial block featuring a one story building with simple brick detailing and glass windows. The other common commercial type is the two-part commercial block, which is typically two stories with a horizontal division between the first story and the upper stories. All of the commercial-style buildings found in Phase I feature two stories except 3631 North Kelley Avenue.

Multi-Family Residential

There are 33 multi-family buildings and apartment complexes found within the survey area. They were constructed between 1932-1986. The buildings range from duplexes to larage apartment complexes. The duplexes blend into single-family neighborhoods by featuring architectural styles of the surrounding houses. Other apartment buildings are monolithic in design and range between one to two stories. These buildings feature long rectangular footprints either directly facing the street or perpendicular to the street. Apartment buildings are typically box-like in design, wood-frame with various veneers, exterior or interior stairwells, and may have off-street parking. Apartment buildings also feature balconies or walk-out landings like 2601 North Phillips Avenue and 2700 North Lindsay Avenue.

CONSTRUCTION DATES

The approximate date of construction within the survey area begins in 1923 with a National Folk-style house at 644 Northeast 30th Street. The last building was under construction in December 2020 at 644 Northeast 28th Street. Based on the pattern of Phase I surveyed properties, the earliest properties were constructed along the southern boundary and later properties constructed as development continued north. The trend of construction created a pyramid of development, growing from 1920s with 7.3%, peaking in the 1950s with 48%, and declining through the 1980s to 2.4%. No properties were constructed during the 1990s within the Phase I boundary. During the 2000s to the present, infill commercial development has occurred along the western and southern edges of the boundary. Residential infill development has occurred throughout the interior of the survey area.

The most prevalent property type within the survey area are single-family dwellings which constitutes 87.6% of the building. Other uses found included multiple family dwellings, professional offices, government offices, religious buildings, and financial institutions. Most non-residential property types are found on the outer edges of the survey boundary, with residential property types found within the interior of the survey area.

CAPTIOL VIEW HISTORIC DISTRICT

The Capitol View Historic District is eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places for local significance under Criterion A in the area of Community Planning and Development as a residential area that was developed during the end of the 19th Century through 1970. The potential historic district is roughly bounded by North Laird Avenue to the east, Northeast 24th Street to the south, North Lindsay Avenue to the west, which follow North Phillips Street to Northeast 27th Street to the north. Within the boundary, there are 87 primary buildings and one site. During Phase I of the survey, 71 properties were found to retain sufficient integrity to be contributing, and there are 6 properties that are non-contributing. The remaining ten properties are to be determined during Phase II to evaluate their integrity as part of the potential historic district. Until the Intensive Level Survey of the Capitol View Neighborhood and historic context is complete, additional properties may warrant inclusion within the potential historic district boundary.

The period of significance is between 1929-1975. The area was primarily developed during the first half of the 20th century with popular architecture styles such as Tudor Revival, Bungalow/Craftsman, Colonial Revival, and Minimal Traditional. There are over 30 examples of Tudor Revival houses displaying various siding materials and methods of construction. During the period of significance, the historic district saw the discovery of oil northeast of the State Capitol Building in the 1930s, and oil wells were frequent within the historic district and surrounding areas. The trolley and streetcar line ran north and south along North Phillips Avenue, which encouraged perspective homeowners to build within the area. The Oklahoma City streetcar line lost its popularity with the rise of the automobile, and several houses featured detached garages as early as 1932. In addition, the potential Capitol View Historic District displays the evolution of multi-family housing within the neighborhood with multiple duplexes in various architectural styles, commercial-style brick-box apartments, and modern movement apartment complexes. The potential Capitol View Historic District is an excellent representation of the changing use of the neighborhood northeast of the Oklahoma State Capitol Building.

MCNABB PARK-PARK TERRACE HISTORIC DISTRICT

The McNabb Park-Park Terrace Historic District is eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places for local significance under Criterion A in the area of Community Planning and Development as a residential area that was developed during the 1950s and 1960s. The historic district bounded by Northeast 36th Street to the north, North Kelley Avenue to the east, Northeast 30th Street to the south, and North Phillips Avenue to the west. The McNabb Park-Park Terrace Historic District includes the McNabb Park Addition platted in 1910, and the Park Terrace Addition platted in the 1950s. The Park Terrace Addition replated northern portion of the McNabb Park Addition.

Within the boundary, there are 243 primary buildings. During Phase I of the survey, 153 properties were found to retain sufficient integrity to be contributing, and there are 35 properties that are non-contributing. The remaining 55 properties are to be determined during Phase II to evaluate their integrity as part of the potential historic district. The residential area was primarily developed during the 1950s and 1960s with Ranch style houses and few commercial businesses. The development strayed from the traditional grid system by using the existing topography and roads to create the Park Terrace neighborhood. The period of significance begins in 1954 with the first wave of construction up to 1975 when construction waned.

SUMMARY

The intent of this survey is to assist officials and the public with recognizing and identifying historic properties and provide guidance to known historic properties within the Capitol View Neighborhood. This report comprises the first installment of the Intensive-Level Survey of the Capitol View Neighborhood, and Phase I begins the process of identifying historic properties within its jurisdiction and assist with future planning and preservation efforts as well as determining the eligibility of properties and historic districts to the National Register of Historic Places. The Capitol View and Park Terrace Historic Districts warrant further examination as potential historic districts to the National Register of Historic Places. Both historic districts are excellent representations of different methods of construction and development within the Capitol View Neighborhood. This survey will continue City of Oklahoma City's process of identifying historic properties within its jurisdiction and assist with future planning and preservation efforts.
